By P. O'DONOVAN

RIGHT out of 19 State primaries have been completed in the American Presidential election. The picture they give is of an electorate that is in a comfortable apathy. It is clear that there is no substantial protest vote this year. Issues are intricate. Neither party offers a clear solution to minorities with a grievance. As a result, polls have been strikingly low and Democratic leaders have, however, taken some comfort from the primaries. They report a decline in Republican voting of from 12 to 40 per cent, and an increase in Democratic voting of from 12 to 35 per cent. The most significant primaries are likely to be those in Florida on Tuesday and California on June 5. There Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Kefauver meet in a head-on, no-excuse-possible contest. The farm vote is still the least certain large element in the election, and there are clear indications that in the areas worst hit by the agricultural depression, voters are turning to the Democrats.

Few tempers are being roused by questions of foreign policy or foreign aid. The civil rights issue is the plague of the Democrats and Mr. Stevenson's recent accusation that the President had shown moral cowardice on this issue was couched in terms that were designed to preserve the large Negro northern vote for his party and still not wholly alienate the white South. Personal attacks on the President are becoming more frequent and will certainly become stronger before the campaign. After a poor start, Mr. Stevenson seems to have restored his chances for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Kefauver is the man that requires explaining. Even though it is thought unlikely that he will win the Democratic nomination, his support is significant. His followers now say that no one is for Kefauver except the people. And there is some truth in that.

A large part of the American electorate has broken loose from its traditional party loyalties and it is clear that a part of it is disaffected with the arbitrary alignment. Mr. Kefauver's appeal is a simple, personal one. He speaks straight to the voter without any party organization. Although at first sight platitudinous and safe, one of the chief sources of his appeal is his plainness of speech and his plainness of machines are again him.

THIS vague dissatisfaction has filled the air with rumours of third parties. They are most unlikely to become fact. There are rumours of a Southern party dedicated to preserving segregation, of a right-wing party under Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, staffed by the disappointed followers of Senator McCarthy, and of a farm-labor party from those dissatisfied with the present administration of the Democrats. But these are only vague stirrings. The fact of American contentment at present blankets the polls. At present even the sternest warnings and most eloquent abuse seems to leave the electorate no more than pleasantly warmed.

German Jews Worried About Growing Neo-Nazi Activities

DUSSELDORF, Saturday (Reuters). — The Jewish community in Germany is worried about increasing activities of Neo-Nazi groups and publishers, a spokesman for the West German Jewish community said today.

He said their activities were not primarily anti-Semitic but clearly Neo-Nazi. According to Jewish estimates there were about 60 right-wing radical organizations, 43 youth groups and 20 political parties with a right-wing tendency. There were also anti-misgivings about a youth congress next month in Munich called by the right-wing radical organizations, including the Stahlhelm Veterans League.

"We saw similar rallies in 1927 and 1928, and are not happy about a repetition," the spokesman said.

He admitted, however, that at present anti-Semitism played no importance role in West Germany. This was probably partly due to the fact that there were "very few" Jews in Germany today. The

Soviet Invites U.S., British Air Chiefs

WASHINGTON, Saturday (Reuters). — The Soviet Union has invited the U.S. Air Force to send a group of officers to the Soviet air show on June 24, headed by the Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Nathan Twining. It was announced yesterday.

The British Air Ministry stated today that the Secretary of State for Air, Mr. Nigel Birch, has accepted an invitation from the Soviet Air Force to visit Russia next month. He will be accompanied on the trip by senior British officers.

A report in "The New York Times" yesterday said that the Soviet invitation has embittered the American administration. The newspaper's chief Washington correspondent, Mr. James Reston, noted that there was a controversy within the administration about high-level exchanges with the Russians.

The controversy had not yet been carried to the President, he added, but the latest approach would undoubtedly bring the issue to a decision.

The latest Soviet move touched off speculation in the U.S. press, that American and Soviet Chiefs of Staff might tour each other's military establishments.

Yesterday, Secretary of State Acheson said that he saw no great significance in the Russian invitation which was already rumoured.

Mr. Acheson said he had not seen the invitation yet. But he said when it turns up it will be handled in an "unhurried and normal manner."

Tito to Visit Russia in June

BELGRADE, Saturday (Reuters). — President Tito, accompanied by his wife, will make his three-week state visit to the Soviet Union from June 12 to 24, it was announced today.

He will arrive on the first anniversary of the signing of the Belgrade pact, the treaty which ended the Cominform break and laid the basis for the present friendship between the two countries. Foreign observers saw the visit as symbolizing normal relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, and a triumph for Marshal Tito's policy of independence of the Soviet bloc.

At the end of June, President Tito will visit Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, and then return to Yugoslavia.

Meanwhile, today, President Tito received the Egyptian Ambassador, Hussein Roubayda at the latter's request.

BULGARIAN RECEIVES PERMANENT AMBASSADOR

MOSCOW, Saturday (Reuters). — Prime Minister Nikolai Bulganin today received the Iranian Ambassador, Mr. Masoud Anvari, and had a talk with him, TASS reported.

When Chief Minister Abu Kossan Sarka, who is also present his budget, Opposition speakers raised points of order challenging his Government's competence. The Speaker refused to allow the budget to be presented, and adjourned the Assembly indefinitely.

British Industry To Learn H-Bomb Secret

LONDON, Saturday (UPI). — Britain announced today that she will share some of the secrets of her H-bomb for peace project with private industry.

All previous work on harnessing the power of the H-bomb has been top-secret. But the British Atomic Energy Authority revealed its intention to share these secrets in an invitation to a non-Government scientists to a "classified" meeting on June 4 on controlled thermonuclear energy.

RAF Strafes Defiant Aden Tribesmen

ADEN, Saturday. — Twelve Venom jet fighters today attacked with cannon fire 60 armed eastern protectorate tribesmen who defied strafing by a Lincoln bomber, and refused an ultimatum to surrender. Details about casualties are not known, and a casualty aircraft is standing by here to take off at daybreak.

The tribesmen were described by a political officer as "tough desert fighters" who fired back at the Lincoln. The Venoms attacked in waves of two, and sand and rock were blasted high in the air as their cannons opened up. The tribesmen were near Buan al Abr, in desert country about 160 miles south of the Saudi Arabian border.

Intelligence sources said that Saudi Arabian and Yemeni authorities have been bribing tribesmen to stir up trouble against pro-British rulers in the Protectorate. More than 450 tribesmen have returned so far from Najran in Saudi Arabia, but about 1,000 are still believed to be at a Saudi Arabian camp just across the frontier.

Civil War Looms In South Sudan

CAIRO, Saturday (UPI). — Several armed rebel bands are fighting last-ditch battles against Government troops in the Sudan, and the threat of civil war is dangerously close in that some, according to travellers from the Sudan.

Regular Sudanese troops are attacking rebel forces consisting of disbanded remnants from last year's mutiny in the Sudan defence force. The rebels are known to be concentrated in points near the frontiers of Uganda and the Belgian Congo.

The travellers said that the major cause of the fighting could not be determined, but added that the rebellion could generate a civil war as the local population is roused against the Government's repressive measures, and resented the presence of northern administrators in the south. A Khartoum report said that the Sovereignty Council has sent its southern member, Sir John Gubb from Jordan in March, stated that British officers would be retained only in advisory and technical capacities "for some considerable time." But the Legion would eventually disperse with all foreign officials.

Large Algerian Rebel Group Surrounded

ALGIERS, Saturday (Reuters). — About 500 insurgents were today reported to be dividing into small groups in the face of a determined move by strong French forces in the mountains 50 km south-east of here.

The French troops, backed by tanks and aircraft, encircled the rebels. A patrol of 21 men fell into an ambush near Palestro eight days ago. Eighteen mutilated bodies of the men who were in the patrol have been found.

Insurgents cut the throats of 13 Europeans, including a woman, at Oumache, south-east Algeria. They also captured 20 Moslems. Another group of 150 rebels, including a woman, was captured near Rebaia, 160 km. south of Algiers, and two persons were hurt in a grenade attack on the synagogue in Batna today.

'Economist' Urges Cyprus Be Handed Over to NATO

LONDON, Saturday. — A warning to the Government that Cyprus must become a NATO base forms the most striking part of an important editorial in today's "Economist" which is attracting much attention here.

The article, which summarizes the results of the last year of Conservative rule, sees the greatest failure in the field of foreign policy as the failure to accept the fact that Sir Anthony Eden is specifically accused of having sacrificed basic considerations to "the short-term manoeuvres of a skilled diplomatic technician."

In addition to urging major economies in defence and the transformation of Cyprus into a NATO base, the "Economist" says that "the first need for any solution of the Cyprus problem is the Middle East and in its strategic colonies that do not want to be colonies any more."

This critical assessment of the Government's foreign policy in a key area comes at a moment when public opinion has at last become alarmed over latest reports from Jordan suggesting a further decline in the influence following the rapid promotion of the Arab Legion's new Chief of Staff, "The Times" today, for the first time gives prominence to the "Economist's" "meteoric" rise which "confirms the view held in London that he has been the power behind the throne since the dismissal of Sir John Gubb."

Island Bishop Asks World for 'Justice'

NICOSIA, Saturday (Reuters). — The senior Bishop in Cyprus today called on leading world figures to help bring about a peaceful settlement of the Cyprus problem.

The Bishop, Archbishop Makarios, denounced Britain for "a series of acts against Greek Orthodox institutions and the population of the island."

He sent cables to the U.N. Secretary-General, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the European Committee for Human Rights, the World Council of Churches, the American Council on Unity and the Greek Parliament.

Three persons were injured today when bombs were thrown on the island, and several Cypriots during searches for terrorists and illegal arms.

The son of the Cypriot Greek police officer who was injured by terrorist bullets several months ago was today charged with shooting at a Turkish police officer — an offence punishable by death.

Today, two members of the security forces were slightly injured when terrorists threw a bomb as they came out of a hotel. In Famagusta a Cypriot officer was slightly injured when terrorists threw a bomb at Royal Air Force offices.

The Greek Government has not yet been officially informed of the boarding of the S.S. Eleni, a Greek liner seized by British forces in the Aegean Sea last night. It was learned today. The ship was taken to Limassol to be searched.

Algerian Front Warns Of Big Assault

CAIRO, Saturday (Reuters). — The Algerian Army of National Liberation tonight warned that if the French Government launched an offensive against the Algerian people, it "will counter-attack on an unprecedented scale."

This warning was issued by the National Liberation Front during a Press conference tonight. The "Front welcomed offers of mediation by Nehru of India, and President Tito of Yugoslavia."

French Say Nehru Plan 'Important'

PARIS, Saturday (Reuters). — A Foreign Ministry spokesman has declared that the Government attaches importance to Premier Nehru's plan for an Algerian settlement and has studied it "with great interest."

The spokesman said in reply to questions yesterday that he thought the Nehru plan was conceived in a spirit of friendship to France, but it did not correspond to the French viewpoint as explained by Foreign Minister Christian Pineau who visited New Delhi recently. Mr. Pineau never envisaged "an Algerian nation" or Algerian independence.

Russia Seen Supporting U.K. Resolution in Security Council

'Must Beat Israel'—Legion C.O.

Major-General Ali Abu Nawar, new Commander of the Arab Legion, said on Friday night that the Arabs must conquer Israel.

In his first Press interview since he took over Command of the Legion from Gen. Radi Abuh, Major-General Abu Nawar said that the Arabs must regain the "plundered fatherland" and that the recent treaty by a Legion delegation to neighbouring Arab states was an effort to create "a united army" to defeat Israel.

"We are following a policy laid down by King Hussein to keep the Legion a purely Arab force," Abu Nawar said, adding that "a considerable expansion" of Jordan's armed forces — which has already begun — would be continued as speedily as possible.

The new Legion chief, who played a leading role in restoring the Legion to its former position in Jordan in March, stated that British officers would be retained only in advisory and technical capacities "for some considerable time." But the Legion would eventually disperse with all foreign officials.

West Split On Action in M-E

UNITED NATIONS, Saturday (Reuters). — The Security Council is to convene on Tuesday to discuss Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's report on his recent Middle East mission. It will have a British resolution before it urging retention of the "momentum" towards peace achieved by Mr. Hammarskjöld.

The senior British delegate, Sir Piers Durn, conferred twice with the Soviet representative, Mr. Arkady Sobolev, on the text of the proposed resolution. The Soviet reaction has not been stated, but the fact that Britain is going ahead to sponsor the resolution suggests that Sir Piers has been assured that the Russians will not oppose it.

Mr. Piers also saw Dr. Jozs Brilej of Yugoslavia, President of the Council for this month. These conferences followed discussions in Friday night between Sir Piers and the U.S. delegate, Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, and M. Herve Alphand of France.

The resolution is believed to contain these features: To thank Mr. Hammarskjöld for his successful mission to give his assistance to the parties when necessary. It was understood that the resolution will not specifically endorse the report which Mr. Hammarskjöld sent to the Security Council two weeks ago, but is designed mainly to maintain "momentum" of his peace mission, and consolidate the gains he achieved.

According to reliable informants, the resolution would refer to the need for full compliance with the armistice agreements which Mr. Hammarskjöld concluded with Israel and her Arab neighbours.

The possibility of including in the resolution an embargo on arms to the Middle East has been discussed. Such a provision, it was held, would test the sincerity of the recent Soviet declaration saying that it would support U.N. action to calm the area.

But the draft shown to representatives of Israel, Egypt, Syria, Jordan and the Lebanon last night did not contain such a provision.

General E. L. M. Burns arrived in London last night on his way to New York to report to the meeting.

Lachish Tractor Driver Murdered

A tractor driver working in the Lachish area was ambushed and shot to death on Thursday evening, the Army spokesman announced. The victim was Moshe Scharf, aged 19.

When he failed to return from work, a search was made. It is learned, the tractor — its lights on — was found in the fields with bullet holes in it. There were bloodstains nearby.

The driver's body, shot in the head and back, was found the next day. His ammunition had been stolen.

The Israel delegation to the Jordan Mixed Arab Armistice Commission has protested the incident, the Foreign Ministry spokesman announced. MAC investigators are on Friday found Stron cart-ridge cases of English make in the area. The nature of the terrain did not permit further investigation.

"Ma'ariv" reported that the incident took place 10 kilometres from the Jordan border, near the town of Lachish. Several persons were found leading northwards, towards the border.

On Friday morning, a party of surveyors, working in the area east of the Beer-sheva-Hebron road — near the Jordan-Israel armistice line, was fired upon from Jordan territory, the Army spokesman reported. None of the party was wounded.

Pipes Stolen From Nir Oz

BEERSHEBA, Saturday. — Infiltrators last night stole water pipes from Nir Oz, for the third night in succession. Traces of five persons in rubber-soled shoes led to the Gaza Strip.

A 40-dunam crop of barley was stolen from Kibbutz Lahav at various times last week. Last Tuesday, settlers saw Arabs fleeing from the fields in the direction of the territory of the el Musel tribe. The following day a woman Arab was seen to support East and was caught in the fields by police, were arrested and then released in bond.

Britain Seeks Cordial Relations with Egypt

CAIRO, Saturday (Reuters). — Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, the British Ambassador, discussed Anglo-Egyptian relations with Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Considerable importance was attached in Arab and Western diplomatic circles here to the meeting.

One British source described it as a new effort to dispense misunderstandings and foster cordial relations between the two countries.

Italy Seeking Arab Support in U.N.

ROME, Saturday (Reuters). — A Foreign Ministry official confirmed yesterday that Italian Ambassadors in the Arab world might be instructed to make "informal soundings" to obtain Arab backing for Italy's attempt to obtain a seat on the U.N. Security Council.

He was commenting on press reports that a Syrian Foreign Ministry spokesman had asked the Syrian Prime Minister to support Italy's candidature for the seat to be vacated by Belgium, whose term on the Council expires at the end of this year.

Nuclear Studies Urged for Technion

HAIFA, Saturday.—The annual meeting of the Technion's International Board of Governors ended on Wednesday with the adoption of a IL397,000 budget for next year's training. The Public Relations Department announced yesterday.

At the final session the Board urged that "immediate steps be taken" to prepare a programme of studies in nuclear engineering and to plan for its future expansion.

The session concerned itself mainly with the procurement of teaching staff for the institute, pointing out that its progress and high standards depended on highly qualified instructors. "Conditions offered must be sufficiently attractive to induce educators and scientists of high standing to join the Technion," the Board decided.

It also noted the importance for Israel of the rapid development of energy from atomic sources and of other potentials of nuclear science.

It expressed the hope that the Government, the Jewish Agency and overseas Technion societies would increase their assistance to enable the institute to meet the need for engineers in the country. There are 1,000 engineering students enrolled at the Technion.

Carmel Tells Eshed Their Fare Rise Demands 'Unjustified'

JERUSALEM POST REPORTER

TEL AVIV, Saturday.—The Minister of Transport, Mr. Moshe Carmel, said yesterday that the Eshed Bus Cooperative's demand for an across the board fare increase was unjustified. He told trade union leaders, including red-faced representatives of transport co-operatives, that Eshed was showing a profit for the current year.

The "No" to Eshed's demands was not final, Mr. Carmel said. He will meet representatives of the inter-urban cooperative on Wednesday and they will scrutinize the calculations together. Ministry experts are still examining the claims of Hamekasher at Jerusalem and the Dan cooperative at the Tel Aviv area which had joined Eshed in demanding a 15 per cent fare increase on the basis of rising costs.

But the bus companies' representatives drew little encouragement from Mr. Carmel's remarks yesterday, and they mulctured threats of transport strike. The Minister stated that Eshed's estimate of rising costs were exaggerated by at least two-thirds. He said that the slightly higher costs were cushioned by 10 per cent fare increases allowed a year ago and the company, which was showing a profit, could bear the additional expense.

Moreover, he said they had not fully implemented agreements negotiated last year for retrenchment, including the correction of irregularities in payments to members of the cooperative.

New Diesels Costs of fuel, maintenance and manpower will be reduced this year when Eshed puts new Diesel buses on the roads, Mr. Carmel continued. The company is getting 150 new buses to replace obsolete vehicles, some of which are 25 years old.

The Minister acknowledged that the fare on some routes was too low. But he noted that on some routes it was too high. He will discuss adjustments with representatives of the company, he said.

To the trucking industry's inducement for a 20 per cent increase in rates, the Minister stated that leaders of the industry had agreed not to raise rates, except for certain routes. Instead, the Government will assist them with credits for the acquisition of new lorries. He added that the industry was in poor shape because of bad organization and failure to provide for amortization.

The first step towards merging the Tel Aviv and Jaffa Ports will be taken this week when the Government appoints a coordinating committee comprising the managers of the two Ports and a representative of the Ministry of Transport, Mr. Carmel disclosed. He said that incentives, including rate reductions, will be offered to induce Eshed to use the southern ports which are now handling only 20 per cent of the country's cargo.

Citrus Congress Decides On Fuller Cooperation

JERUSALEM POST STAFF

TEL AVIV, Saturday.—Co-operation between Mediterranean producers of citrus products is to be extended in the wake of a series of resolutions adopted by the Fourth International Congress of Growers yesterday afternoon.

The Congress called on its permanent committee in Madrid to establish relations with organizations of citrus exporters in the U.S., Latin America and South Africa with the aim of "averting superfluous competition and dumping."

The resolutions, covering a wide field ranging from exchange of technical information to public relations and economic research, were passed unanimously.

Mr. Zvi Isakson, President of the Farmers Association, said that the Congress was a landmark in the citrus industry. He said that the Congress was a landmark in the citrus industry. He said that the Congress was a landmark in the citrus industry.

The head of the Soviet delegation to the Congress, Mr. A. Ivanov, in a statement to the Press, stated that its members "were deeply impressed" by their visit to citrus groves in Israel.

He said that the Soviet delegation will stay in the country after the closing of the Congress in order to meet Israeli scientists and others dealing with problems of citrus production and exports.

The congress will wind up its sessions with a visit to Yehud Weizmann in Rehovot at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Attend Luncheon Several members of the Congress Presidium yesterday attended the Commercial and Industrial Club luncheon.

Mr. J. M. Lopez Bru of Spain, President of the Permanent Committee of the Mediterranean Citrus Growers, said that his delegation felt at home in this country. He said that the delegation was tired physically, but "certainly not spiritually," and that it was an eye-opening experience to see the energy and devotion given to work here.

Over 20,000 persons from all over the country crowded into the Citrus and Agriculture Exhibition at Beit Dagon this evening. The doors opened at 6 p.m. Thousands of vehicles were parked in a double row for a kilometre along the main road. The police closed the car park at 10 p.m. and had been filled to capacity.

Israel's First Try Of Wheat Export HAIFA, Saturday. — Israel is joining the wheat exporting countries, though on a small scale, to start.

Hard wheat from the Negev and Upper Galilee began to arrive last week at the Dagon loading wharf where ships bound either for the U.S. or Italy.

The initial quantity is 5,000 tons. The hard wheat is suitable for macaroni manufacture and commands a higher price on the world market than the soft wheat imported for bread making. The price for the latter is $80 per ton while the former is $120.

The hard wheat, about $120 per hard wheat.

More Controls Being Abolished

NAHARIYA, Saturday.—The forthcoming abolition of a number of controls and subsidies for farming produce was announced by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Z. Zuri, yesterday afternoon.

During a meeting with farmers from Western Galilee and Zevulun Valley settlements.

Mr. Zuri stated that on June 1, the Government will abolish the controls on the 20 per cent of chicken farming still under control. He did not make it clear whether the egg ration at the official price would then be abolished as well.

Control of carp will also be wiped out and the Government subsidy for fish fodder discontinued. The subsidy on edible oils will also be eliminated, saving the Government IL1m. annually. He said he expected that 40 per cent of the demand for edible oils would be supplied locally this year.

The Deputy Minister told the farmers that the repayment period for loans received by settlements from the Development Budgets, up to the start of the current fiscal year, would be prolonged from 11 to 14 years. This step would be taken by the Government with a view to easing the credit shortage which has lately worsened because of increased agricultural production.

'Pan-Islamism Would Threaten World' TEL AVIV, Saturday. — Preventing the rise of a Pan-Islamic force, he said, is in the interest of both France and Israel, for such a force, at least in the initial 30 years, would be "aggressive, fanatical and expansionist."

This view was expressed by Mr. Reuven Barkat, head of the Histadrut's Foreign Relations Department, in a lecture before the Israel-France Association of Commerce and Industry last night.

Mr. Barkat stressed, however, that the political philosophy and moral concepts of Israel and France are not opposed to the national liberation of dependent peoples.

The emergence of a Pan-Islamic force would be a threat not only to those directly affected by its expansionist policies, but to the world at large, he said.

Analyzing other "permanent factors" drawing France and Israel closer together, Mr. Barkat expressed the view that co-operation between the two countries is based on noble historic missions, expediency, France is interested in seeing a strong Israel as a realization of humanitarian and political values in our materialistic age, while the creative energy of the Jewish people is a realistic asset of unquestionable value.

France has always been the protector of minority nations in the Middle East, Mr. Barkat pointed out. The French have always considered this to be one of their noblest historic missions, the existence of a viable Israel contributes to France's capacity to carry on with this policy, he said.

Israel would welcome the expansion of French cultural influence in this country, which would enhance our spiritual values, Mr. Barkat declared.

The French Ambassador to Israel, M. Pierre Gilibert, was in the audience. Mr. Hayim Gamzu, Chairman of the Association, presided.

CYPRUS

Julienwarm ally and for the right to spend his money anywhere she wished. Why should he pay for armaments chosen by Egyptian advisers with a weakness for Czechoslovak guns and SIG's?

This sudden burst of anxious speculation about Jordan's future policy, coming as it does on top of a critical onslaught on the Government's Cyprus policy, in some journals otherwise loyal to the Conservative Party, is causing observers here to make a fresh assessment of the strength of Sir Anthony Eden's position.

The groundswell of criticism extends to the forthcoming June issue of "The World Today," monthly journal of Chatham House, which notes that "the recent avowal of Ceylon out of the Commonwealth strategic system into the neutralist camp indicates a tendency that has steadily become more evident since the announcement in 1953 of the withdrawal from Suez; the crumbling of the whole British position east of Suez."

The Journal also notes that "the switch of the British base from Suez to Cyprus has been tactically unfortunate, and along the whole chain of posts the only one that is not at present threatened by internal or external pressure is, paradoxically, Hong Kong."

In all this welter of comment there is hardly any reference to Israel, except as a source of potential trouble or a factor in cementing pan-Arabism. But at least since the Franco-Soviet communiqué last week, it is no longer pretended that the Arab-Israeli issue takes precedence over all other problems and that their solution depends on meeting Arab wishes in regard to Israel.
